CROUP

THIS disease is so dangerous and so rapid in its development that every mother of young children should be prepared for it. It is very risky to wait until the attack of croup appears and then try to treat it. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is prompt and effective and has never been known to fail in any case.
Always have a bottle in the home. For sale by all Chemists and Storekeepers.

DINNEFORD'S

MAGNESIA

The Universal Remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Headache, Heartburn, Indigestion, Bile, Eruptions, Bilious Affections.

A Natural Remedy

Time was when disease was thought to be due to the direct influence of evil spirits, and exorcism and magic were invoked to cast it out. Science has taught us wisdom. The evil spirits exist still. We call them "Disease Germs," and they also must be cast out. Once lodged in the stomach, or intestines, fever with its hallucinations, or biliousness with its aches and pains, is the result.

ENO'S FRUIT SALT

is the approved remedy for driving out disease germs. Its action is quick and thorough. It clears the intestines, rouses the torpid liver to new life, stimulates the mucous membrane to a healthy action, and cleanses and invigorates the whole digestive tract.

It may be safely taken at any time by young or old.

It is very effective in the early stage of Diarrhoea by removing the irritating cause.

Be prepared for emergencies by always keeping a bottle in the house.

A LECTURER'S THEORIES.

HUMAN HABITS AND WILD ANIMAL ORIGINS.

Interesting sidelight on the dim past of humanity and some good animal stories were contained in Mr. Ernest T. Seton's lectures at the "Edison Hall, London, on 'The Fascination of the Wild.' The Earl of Carrick presided.

When I was a little boy, said Mr. Seton, and walked along the pavement, I used to be careful never to put my foot on the line of cement which joined the flagstones. A ripple of smiles ran along the rows of hearers, and one young gentleman whispered to his nurse, 'He knows it! We don't know why we do that explained the lecturer, but its origin not to be found in the days when we were hunting for our food, and crossed rough places and frozen rivers by stepping in the middle of the flagstones and chunks of floating ice.'

Mr. Seton proceeded to demonstrate how most wild animals are now passing through stages which we had left far behind. After they hunted for their food, just as we used to do, they began to put by the surplus for a rainy day. This economy was seen in the beaver and the squirrel. Then they saw the necessity of building houses; and they built houses. After that they saw the need of sanitation; and they made sanitary arrangements. Then they began to evolve social customs. Oh, yes; some of them have real social amusements, remarked the lecturer. They are climbing the same long ladder that we climbed. Why, in Ireland, on an estate where I was staying, there was a family of badgers who used to play that old, old game, king of the castle. I saw them at it, he added, but the owner of the estate saw them, and he old gamekeeper saw them, and both told me of it.

ANIMALS AT PLAY.
 According to the reliable authority of the owner and the game-keeper, this merry family of badgers used to wait till night, and then they would come out and make for the stump of a tree which stood on the down. First one would get up on the stump, and as soon as he was mounted there the others would jump at him and try to catch by the tail or legs. When he was pulled down the victorious badger would mount to the top of the stump in his place and the game would go on fast and furious till a human being would come along and disturb the play.

Wild animals have their games, too, apparently, and foxes meet regularly in some parts to enjoy a social conversation. Their meeting times must not be confused with their mating times, which, according to Mr. Seton, are entirely different. Some of the old trappers told him of how the foxes used to meet in the snow and sit around in something like a circle. Suddenly one would jump up and spread out his starry ruff that does duty for a lion collar, and walk round with his tail on end. When he had finished this parade another fox would follow. There's perhaps not much to it, you'll say, he exclaimed, but still it shows that they have their games. Mr. Seton has one sorrow. Though he knows foxes, jackals, and has spent years studying them, they have never shown the slightest desire to be sociable.

HELIOGRAPHING BY ANTELOPE.
 Having heard that these things were possible, it did not come as a surprise to the audience to hear that though more men claim to have invented the heliograph the American antelope had been heliographing across the plains for centuries. The discovery was made in the wilds of Wyoming, when Mr. Seton was riding up a steep mountain side. Having reached the top, he saw standing not far off an antelope. Sneaking along behind it was a kid, but when the antelope discovered the traveller she dashed a signal to her offspring, and that juvenile flopped down at once and lay as if he were dead. Then the mother tried to sidetrack Mr. Seton, but he insisted on having a look at the youngster. He found him lying flat among some boulders and grass, not a muscle moving, not a quiver in an eyelid. When the horse of the naturalist was ridden within twelve feet of him the young antelope lay obedient to the order of his father.

Then Mr. Seton began to sketch him. This took twenty minutes, and though he walked all over the little fellow and evoked his ear industriously, and over his side where he had a special muscle to show. His of their feet, the ear remained rigid and the muscle never worked. The message which his mother had sent him was a heliograph from two bunches of white fur which all this kind of antelope have on their hindquarters. If startled the white fur—er, all the world like two drynthumms—fold up quickly just like the working of a light. She had told her son to lie down and be quiet, and he obeyed her when the message flashed out—a beautiful object lesson to all little boys and girls.

On the matter of leadership among wild animals Mr. Seton gave another shock to his hearers. Most of you, he said, may think that leadership goes to the biggest and strongest male. But my own experience among big game is that the leadership of the gang goes not to a male at all, but as a rule to an elderly female who has lived a life of responsibility. She has generally reached an age at which she can play no fool tricks, a sentiment which was cheered heartily by the female portion of the audience.

southern streets, or in the dusty jungle where the lion crouches, or to the centre of some public pageant where may be traced the expressions of the face to be in at the making of history. The street is only a few yards away, and five minutes ago you were cold and wild blown like the rest; but now that is nothing, or a dream. You are now in the position most comfortable to man—sitting at ease, observing, speculating, ruminating; imagining with hardly any trouble to yourself. All the work seems to be done for you. The marvellous way in which an illusion, strong enough to defeat circumstances, is created at once, without any effort of imagination, must be attributed chiefly to the fact that the pictures move. (You never have time to be bored by one picture before it changes, becomes another picture, becomes not only a picture but a story, something which has a separate life of its own. Meanwhile you are being worked upon, as indifferent music that goes straight for the obvious emotion does work upon one, and made to feel without willing it rather more than is reasonable.)

But this is only part of the secret, for the stream of traffic outside has no such power to please. A great part of the enchantment must lie in the fact that the most trivial scene—let us say a race of coaches in Hyde Park—when cut off from its surroundings becomes for some queer reason significant, even emotional, as if seldom does in reality. Looking up from an arm-chair in a darkened room you see as you never seen before. The horses and the woman and the trees appear on the sheet as if they had nothing to do with the future or with the past, as if the whips would never descend, or the groans would never be heard, or the horses would never be up behind, or the horses would never be down the road to Richmond. Let alone the strange way in which isolating something from its context heightens the meaning, there is also the sheer excitement and curiosity of the sights themselves. For the first time we see wild beasts creeping down to the pools to drink, or ice-fields grinding each other in the Polar sea. We might almost say that for the first time we see flowers unfolding and waves breaking on the beach.

REAL LIFE PICTURES WANTED. Indeed, the only grudge we have against the management of picture palaces is that they will go to any amount of trouble and expense in dramatising romantic stories which take place, we believe, in cardboard castles in the outskirts of Paris, when the streets are full of pictures as once more comic, more tragic, and possessing of the incomparable recommendation that they are true. Suppose that, instead of inventing an improbable love story complicated by a couple of fierce brown bears in the Rocky Mountains, which has to be conveyed by trained actors carefully made up and dragged steps that fail to convince, we had simply 12 o'clock yesterday in London, Paris, Moscow, Madrid, New York, Rome. The effect would be far more striking, and we must suppose a tenth part as expensive. Those half-dozen pictures of real people going about their businesses in real streets on different sides of the world, with all the little oddities and incidents that one would delight in detecting, would set up an image of the earth and mankind that would surpass all the lovers and all the bears in America.

The versions of famous novels and imaginary adventures which fill three-fourths of the programme appeal, of course, to our love of story-telling, and if they tend to be a little monotonous they have the advantage that moving pictures are simpler, quicker, more direct than the best printed prose can ever hope to be. Whether in this extraordinary good of the eye we are to see reason for alarm or not, we do not know. We are inclined to suspect that the eye in England has been rather cruelly starved. At the present moment, at any rate, it will take anything you choose to give it, as long as it moves, quickly and is exactly like life. We are ready to look at places, people, animals, plants, waves, things that never happened, things that were written about, things that could not be seen, things that could not be felt, things that could not be known. Whether, all the same, we are tending towards some new form of art which is to have movement and shape, to be like life and yet to be selected and arranged as a work of art, who can say? In the meantime we have a fury for seeing, and remain happy, greedy, and terribly indiscriminate.

little expense for maintenance. They carry, as shown by the illustrations in Engineering, such tools as axes and pikes, portable extinguishers and hose. With the larger cars chemical tanks of capacities up to 45 gallons are provided, and a pump, driven from the propelling engine is added in the case of many of the larger machines. On a telephonic alarm the apparatus is sent to each village's assistance, as a run of 10 miles can be made in 15 minutes to half an hour. It is, however, in cities that motor apparatus is playing the most important part, and one that is destined to grow, for to-day not only considerations of increased efficiency, but also economy of maintenance, demand the elimination of the horse for all services, from that of the light official car to the heaviest water-tower or steam fire-engine. Or an extension or serial ladder or escape that can be wheeled to a burning building may be wanted. All of these machines are heavy, slow, and unwieldy, especially under winter conditions, and when horse-drawn their movement may be attended with difficulty. Yet any, or all, may be needed at an early stage of the fire, and consequently the increased speed of travel given by motor propulsion makes them fundamentally more useful. This will appear when we consider the various classes of apparatus in more detail. There is, broadly speaking, an increase in initial cost of about 100 per cent in self-moving over horse-drawn apparatus. Yet in maintenance striking economies are shown, for fire apparatus does no useful work except at a time of emergency, and its economy must be considered solely with such service in view, infrequent and irregular as it may be. Consequently there is little deterioration due to a large mileage and tyre-wear, that serious consideration for a commercial car—is very small. There are only petrol and lubricants as compared with forage, shoeing, veterinary attendance and harness. On the score of age alone the horse shows an annual depreciation of about 20 per cent, which is far greater than that of any motor maintained for fire service. There is also an important saving in the space used, or needed, as quarters for a fire company, so that more apparatus can be installed on the same floor space or a smaller house may be built.

ONLY recently has it been realised in America, says "Engineering," that the prevention of fires, rather than the fighting of large conflagrations, is the true rôle of a fire department. Furthermore the control of the fire-fighting forces in the United States, even when not impaired by political influences, has been largely in the hands of men who have risen from the ranks in the various departments, or of directors or commissioners appointed from civil life for short terms, rather than in those of men of engineering or military training, and antecedents by whom continuous policies could be developed. As a result, there has been a spirit of conservatism that possibly has been excusable, and often a disinclination to adopt radical innovations either in equipment or method until the wisdom of the step was shown beyond dispute. Notwithstanding their well-trained men and horses, and the wonderful agility and celerity displayed both in drill and action, there are some respects in which the brigades of America are behind the best European practice, and one of these has been the development of automobile apparatus. It has been only within a few years that the latter has been adopted on as large a scale as in Europe, and even now the determination of the most satisfactory types of machines has only, in few classes, passed beyond the experimental stage. There have been some interesting mechanical and motor developments in this field, and the present efforts to improve American fire departments along these lines are worthy of consideration. The problems of "motorising" fire apparatus are not confined to the large cities. Prompt effort and a few simple measures on the part of resolute and trained men frequently can produce notable results in the saving of life and property, and a high-speed motor-car on a travel a country road rapidly enough to reach the scene in quick time. Such a vehicle has been found an important element in country fire protection, and throughout the United States hundreds of villages are providing themselves with fast motor fire cars to be maintained at some central point for this service. After the initial cost of the machine, and building and housing it, there is but

HONGKONG BANK CASE.
Judgment for Defendant Corporation.
In the Supreme Court this morning the Chief Justice, Sir William Ross Davies, K.C., delivered his written judgment in the recent action brought in Original Jurisdiction against the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation by Lau E Sam.
In his judgment, which was somewhat lengthy, the Chief Justice said the plaintiff in this action claimed a declaration that a certain mortgage taken by the defendant company from their former comrade was null and void, and the consequential remedies were asked for in respect of the sale of property comprised within the mortgage sold under the power of sale. The facts were shortly as follows: One Lau Pan Chiu was engaged by the defendant company as its comrade, in March 1906 and gave a cash security for the proper performance of his duties of $62,000. There were as a fact other mortgage securities given to secure his conduct and on the 12th March of that year he executed an agreement with certain sureties for the proper discharge of his duties and that of the Chinese staff and for any obligations which might arise. On June 10 he was repudiated by the company and gave a mortgage to the Bank of certain lease property to secure a further sum of some $22,500. The mortgage contained the usual power to sell and according to the defendant's evidence was the usual form of mortgage security given by a comrade to a bank in Hongkong or in the Far East. In November, 1910, the comrade executed a second mortgage of the same property to the plaintiff for the sum of $21,000; the second mortgage recited fully the prior mortgage of the Bank. In September, 1912, the comrade absconded from the Colony, being in default to the bank for some $160,000. The Bank sold the property comprised in the mortgage under the power of sale, but prior to this the Bank had received notice of the second mortgage. It was, however, agreed between the parties that the sale should be completed, and the proceeds held by the defendant Company until all matters in dispute in that action had been settled. His Lordship, after considering the authorities quoted, was of the opinion that the mortgage was not ultra vires the Ordinance, and it was therefore not necessary for him to determine the alternative question as to the validity between the parties and those claiming through them. Judgment was therefore entered for defendants with costs.

STAR FERRY COMPANY.
ANNUAL MEETING.
The Hon. Mr. D. Landale presided at the fifteenth ordinary annual meeting of shareholders in the Star Ferry Co. held this morning at the offices of Messrs Jardine, Matheson & Co. There were also present Hon. Sir Paul Chater, Hon. Mr. E. Shellim, Mr. S. Northcote, directors; Mr. W. S. Brown (secretary), Messrs. A. E. Crappell, Ho Fook, J. W. O. Bonner, H. A. Siebs, J. Scott, Harrison, J. W. Taylor, C. S. Gubbay, A. A. Fyfe and Lampert.
The Chairman, proposing the adoption of the report and accounts and an amended distribution of profits recommended by the directors, said:—The profit on the year's working shows a considerable improvement on the previous one due partly to the increase of traffic and partly to the decrease in loss on copper coinage. A new double wharf is being erected at Kowloon by the Wai Fong and Godwin Co. and an agreement has been entered into in connection therewith whereby Government extends the term of the agreement for the carriage of the railway passengers to the Star Ferry Co. to 15 years. As foreshadowed by my predecessor in the Chair the unpaid capital of the Company was called up during the year and $100,000 of the reserve fund was capitalised in accordance with the resolutions passed by the shareholders on 24th July last year. Your fleet of boats and the Ice House Street Pier having been insured with a local company against typhoon risks there is no need at present for an insurance fund and the amount of $71,745.94 standing at the credit of this account in the report before you has therefore been transferred to the reserve fund with a view to ultimately being capitalised. Further details of this matter will be forthcoming when the proposals are submitted for your consideration. Since the reports were sent to you, we have received a communication from a shareholder relative to the proposed dividend of $1.75 on the second issue of 10,000 shares and your directors have been advised that they should meet his claim for a dividend of the same amount as the holders of the first issue. We now therefore recommend an amended distribution of profits as follows:
To write off Ice House Street Pier... $3,823.72
To pay dividends as follows:—
$2.00 per share on 1st and 2nd issues (20,000 shares)... 40,000.00
$1.00 per share on 3rd issue (10,000 shares)... 10,000.00
To transfer to reserve fund... 18,254.08
To carry forward... 8,795.18
$75,872.96
A memorandum of this amendment has been handed to you at this meeting. Before proposing the adoption of the accounts and report with the amended distribution of profits, I shall be pleased to answer to the best of my ability any questions shareholders may wish to ask.
No questions were asked, and the motion having been seconded by Mr. Lampert, it was carried unanimously.
On the motion of Mr. Scott Harrison, seconded by Mr. Bonner, the appointment of Hon. Mr. Landale and Hon. Mr. Shellim to the directorate was confirmed.
The Chairman proposed, Mr. Gubbay seconded, and it was unanimously agreed that Sir Paul Chater and Mr. Northcote be re-elected directors.
Mr. Ho Fook proposed, Mr. Siebs seconded and it was agreed that Mr. W. Hutton Poole be re-elected auditor at a remuneration of $200 per annum.

CANTON INSURANCE OFFICE, LTD.
Annual Meeting.
The thirty-second annual meeting of the Canton Insurance Office, Ltd., was held this morning at Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co., Ltd., the offices of the company. The Hon. Mr. David Landale presided, and others present included Sir Paul Chater, Hon. Mr. E. Shellim, Messrs. H. P. White, F. Meisland, D. W. Craddock (Consulting Committee), F. C. Hall, A. J. P. Pomfret, Ho Fook, Ho Kum Tung, Captain W. E. Clarke, Messrs. Stevenson, Lo Cho Shiu, Chan Sun, J. M. Brodell, H. Percy Smith, Wong Leung Him, J. F. Harrison, and L. N. Loebe, Secretary.
The Secretary read the notice convening the meeting, and the Auditor's report.
The Chairman said: This report and accounts have been in your hands for some days, and I will therefore with your permission, take them as read. It is necessary that I should explain to you the reason why it has been decided to alter the date at which the annual meeting of the Company is to be held in future. Our system hitherto has been to endeavour to estimate in October, what the final outcome of the previous year's working will be, and this is open to the grave objection that in October a number of the policies issued in the previous year have not expired, and indeed all the casualties which will affect them have not then taken place. It has long been our wish to alter this system, but the difficulty has been how to bring about the change without inflicting a hardship upon shareholders. A particularly successful twelve months working makes it possible to overcome this. We are paying a dividend of $18.00 per share, which is the same as was paid last year, only we are paying it in May instead of in October, and this, so far from entailing any hardship upon shareholders, offers them an advantage to which I am sure they will make no objection. This payment, you will see from the accounts, can be made entirely out of interest. About this time next year (probably at the end of April as a matter of fact) we shall hold our next annual meeting, when an interim dividend in respect of the year 1913 will be declared. By next April our underwriting results for the year 1912 can be very closely ascertained, and it is our intention then to pay a final dividend if the ultimate result and the position of the Company justify it, as we have every reason to think they will. You will realise, therefore, that the benefit of this new system is, that in future, no dividend will be paid in respect of a given year out of underwriting profits, until all the policies issued in that year have run off, and until the final result can be closely gauged. The payment that we are now making being out of interest, it did not seem to us that there was any reason why shareholders should be called upon to wait for it. Turning to the accounts you will see that 1912 promises to be a very successful year. The premium income reveals a very substantial increase, showing that we have not failed to secure our share in the greater activity which has taken place at the big centres of trade. Of course the balance, of roughly a million and a half, you must expect to see considerably reduced when we meet next spring, by which time it will have been debited with all the second year's payments. You will note with satisfaction that the underwriting suspense account is in a very healthy position, as 1911 has been running off well. It also will be observed that the Company's investments in gold securities have increased, and though of course these yield a lower rate of interest, we think that the possession of gold securities enhances the Company's credit, and to a great extent it has been necessitated by the difficulty experienced in finding suitable investments for our surplus funds in China. The high rate of exchange ruling on 31st December last is reflected in our investment and exchange fluctuation account, and as we put more of our money into gold, so will it be incumbent upon us to maintain this account as a substantial figure to make provision for the loss which may take place in gold values as expressed in silver. Before proposing the adoption of the report and accounts I shall be glad to answer any questions arising out of them which shareholders may wish to put.
There being no questions, the Chairman proposed the adoption of the report and accounts.
Captain W. E. Clarke seconded, and the motion was carried.
Mr. Stevenson proposed the re-election of the Consulting Committee, which was seconded by Mr. Ho Fook and carried.
On the motion of Mr. Brittel, seconded by Mr. Chan Sun, the Auditors, Messrs. H. Percy Smith and A. R. Lowe, were re-elected.
The Chairman announced that the dividend warrants would be ready to-morrow.
EXTRAORDINARY MEETING.
An extraordinary general meeting followed, the business relating to the Articles of Association.
The Chairman said: This meeting, as you are aware, is called to consider, and if thought fit, approve of the draft new Articles of Association. I do not think that they require any lengthy reference from me. The reason for having new articles was explained to you in the circular letter of 1st April, 1913, which together with a copy of the old articles, and a copy of the proposed new articles, has been sent to each shareholder. There has consequently been ample time for them to be studied. I do not think the revision contains any matters which can in any sense be regarded as contentious. They have been prepared, as you know by the company's relations, and their adoption is solely with the object of furnishing the "Cartan" with a set of articles up-to-date, and suitable for meeting the present day needs. Before, however, putting the formal resolution I should be glad to hear any remarks which any shareholders may wish to make. If this meeting approves of these articles, and passes the resolution which I shall shortly put, it will be necessary to submit a further resolution at an extraordinary meeting to be held in three weeks' time.

There being no remarks, the Chairman proposed that the draft of the new Articles of Association be approved.
Sir Paul Chater seconded, and the motion was carried.
The Chairman proposed that the new articles already approved be adopted as the Articles of the Company in substitution for, and to the conclusion of all the existing articles.
Sir Paul Chater seconded, and the motion was carried.
The Chairman stated that the extraordinary meeting would be called in three weeks' time.

IMPURE WOOD OIL.
JUDGMENT FOR MESSRS. LEXLEY & CO.
In the Summary Court to-day judgment was delivered by Mr. Justice Kemp, Plesner Judge, in the action in which Messrs. W. R. Lexley & Co., general merchants and exporters of wood oil, sued the Nam-Mow firm, of 154, Connaught Road Central, for $1,000 as damages for breach of contract.
Mr. F. O. Jenkins (instructed by Mr. Denry, of Messrs. Donny & Bowley) represented the plaintiffs, and Mr. Davidson (of Messrs. Hastings & Hastings) appeared for the defendants.
His Lordship gave judgment as follows: This was a case of a written contract for the sale and purchase of "wood oil." The plaintiffs, asserting that the oil supplied by the defendants was adulterated to the extent of about 10 per cent, "rejected" the oil and brought this action for damages for non-delivery of the oil contracted for. The plaintiffs had sold the oil to a firm in New York, but though the defendants knew that the oil was intended for export they were not informed of this particular contract at any material time. Expert evidence was called for the plaintiffs to show that the oil was adulterated to the extent of about 10 per cent, though neither of the two experts would swear that estimate was accurate to within 1 per cent, or 2 per cent, and both admitted that the variation might be a little more than that. Mr. Frank Brown, one of the two experts, gave it as his opinion that the foreign substance was another vegetable oil. Now it is quite clear that Mr. Brown does not even contemplate the possibility of the foreign matter being a natural impurity arising in the course of manufacture. His evidence implies that it was added. Mr. Spurge's evidence, though not clear, is to the same effect. This evidence is not rebutted in any way. It is also obvious that none of the witnesses, on either side, knew anything of any "wood oil" which contains an admixture of some other vegetable oil. In view of the above facts it is impossible to avoid the conclusion that the goods supplied did not answer the description of "wood oil" which was given in the contract. The case shows that the defendants were a mixture consisting of a mixture of wood oil to 10 per cent, of some other vegetable oil added to 93 per cent, or to 90 per cent, of wood oil. The delivery was of a low quality of wood oil but of a mixture of wood oil and of something which was not wood oil at all. The case shows that the defendants were a mixture consisting of a mixture of wood oil to 10 per cent, of some other vegetable oil added to 93 per cent, or to 90 per cent, of wood oil. The delivery was of a low quality of wood oil but of a mixture of wood oil and of something which was not wood oil at all. CANADA'S NAVY BILL.

A LARGE DEMONSTRATION.

SPEECH BY THE PREMIER.

LONDON, May 20.
The Canadian Premier, Mr. R. L. Borden, addressed a demonstration at Toronto of 10,000 people, the largest ever held in Canada, on the subject of the Navy Bill. The decorations of the building included the motto "One flag, one fleet, one Empire." A huge model of a battleship, the "Mikado," was on display. Mr. Borden declared that the bill was a "great political mistake of his life." While the map of Europe was changing, as the result of one of the most remarkable of modern wars, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, of universal peace, and continued his policy of procrastination and evasion with which he had met every effort that had been made to secure the real co-operation of Canada in the defence of the King's dominions. Sir Wilfrid Laurier had shown this recalcitrant and reactionary attitude at every Imperial Conference. Mr. Borden declared to believe that all the Liberal Senators would dance when Sir Wilfrid pulled the strings. Otherwise he would be prepared to declare that the Senate had outlived its usefulness, and an immediate remedy must be found. The Senate was entitled to every respect, but it was not above the Canadian people.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's conception was of a separate Canadian navy, distinct from that of Great Britain, which would be neutral in time of war, unless the Government, after examination and deliberation, considered the quarrel just. Mr. Borden described as grotesque and illogical, the policy that Canada, remaining within the Empire, could be neutral, and that her ships, flying the British flag, could be neutral in the face of an enemy's ships preying upon British commerce. That policy could only have one result—the severance of every tie binding the Dominion to the Empire. Just pride in Canada's national status might demand the Canadian division not of British, but of an Imperial navy, constituting the common defence of the whole Empire, but not dissimilar separate navies of which one or more might be neutral in war time.

FIGHTING IN TRIPOLI.

ARABS ATTACK ITALIANS.

LONDON, May 20.

A telegram from Ben Ghazi reports that the Italians stormed the strongly entrenched positions at Sidi Garba and Rasnain, which were desperately defended. The Arabs afterwards attacked the Italians unexpectedly, but were repulsed after the arrival of reinforcements. The Italian losses were seven officers and 72 men killed, and 29 officers and 250 men wounded.

Five men were imprisoned.

TURCO-BALKANS WAR.

LONDON, May 21.

Dr. Danef has had a long conference with Sir Edward Grey. The Bulgarian view is that if the Allies will not sign the preliminaries, it is the duty of the Powers to take steps to secure the signature. The Turkish delegates take the same view.

Sir Edward Grey has declared that he will advise the Allies not to question matters within the competence of the Powers.

It is the view of Europe that if the signature of peace is delayed the Allies stand every chance of losing what they would otherwise gain.

The Greek peace delegate, M. Skuludis, ridicules the arrangement between Greece and Serbia.

A number of inquiries were made yesterday at the Insurance Market in connection with the Japan-American dispute, and rates covering shipments for three months, varying from five to twenty shillings per cent, were transacted.

AN OPIUM CASE.

1,050 Tael Involved.

At the Magistrate's this afternoon before Mr. Hazell, four Chinese—two men and two women—were charged with being in possession of 1,050 tael of prepared opium, and also with attempting to export opium without a permit.

Mr. Woodcock (Assistant Crown Solicitor), prosecuted; and Mr. Otto Kong Sing defended.

Mr. Woodcock, in opening the case, said that about 10 p.m. on April 16th Inspector Wilton, Revenue Officer, received certain information and engaged two men. He went out and watched the steamer ship Rubi. He and a native Revenue Officer went in one sampan, and three native Revenue Officers in another. They went within about sixty yards of the Rubi, which was lying across the harbour, the stern pointing about midway between Blake Pier and Douglas Wharf, and the fore part towards Tsim Sha Tsui. The boat in which Inspector Wilton went lay alongside the Rubi, but was screened from the vessel by a launch. The other boat was tied to the Rubi's stern. About 3.45 on the morning of April 17th a boat was seen to be approaching the Rubi coming from the east. It curved round to the north of the boat in which Inspector Wilton was, and ran alongside the Rubi. When quite close to the Rubi, the sails were lowered and the light was put away. A rope was seen to be held down from the Rubi, and a large package was seen to be drawn on board. Some one on board took it, and apparently went with it to the foreman's quarters. This was repeated three times, and three packages were drawn on board in all. After this was done the sampan which had approached made away. Inspector Wilton went on board, rushed down the ladder leading to the foreman's quarters, and there found the three packages. The boat which had brought the packages was chased by Inspector Wilton's other boat and caught. The four defendants were on it. The packages were found to contain opium, 1,050 tael in all, done up in 50 tael-lin. No passenger or anyone on board claimed the opium.

John T. Whitton, Revenue Officer, was then called and bore out Mr. Woodcock's opening statement.

The case was adjourned.

THE PARTY WALL CASE.

JUDGMENT ON THE COUNTERCLAIM.

The Chief Justice, Sir William Res Davies, K.C., in Original Jurisdiction this morning delivered his considered judgment on the counterclaim in the action recently heard before him, and a special jury, in which the parties were Chan Kau, plaintiff, and Chan Woon Cheung, defendant. The plaintiffs in the action claimed damages for the defendant's alleged negligence in connection with the re-building of his premises destroyed in the Lascar Road fire, by which it was alleged plaintiff's house suffered, but the jury found against them. The counterclaim was for the plaintiffs' share of the cost of re-building a party wall between the two premises.

The text of the judgment was as follows:—

I have considered the cases cited and I am of opinion that the counterclaim fails. Section 240 of the Public Health and Building Ordinance 1911 gives the adjoining owner one month after the delivery of the account, rendered by the previous section, to declare his dissent from the account, and if he does not do so the amount becomes liquidated and on demand is recoverable as a debt (section 247) the case of Blair v. Curdner, 19 Q.B.D. 516, is not I think, analogous. The Court held in that case that the sending of a solicitor's bill means "from demand," but in this Ordinance a month is expressly given to the adjoining owner to express dissatisfaction of the account before the right to demand payment arises, and such a demand can only be made if the adjoining owner has not declared his dissatisfaction. I do not think that the demand contained in the letter of August 21st 1912 delivering the account is what is contemplated by section 247, as no right had then arisen to demand payment. This did not arise until the expiration of one month, the period given to the adjoining owner to express his dissatisfaction.

AMERICAN ARRESTED IN HONGKONG.

ALLEGED M. WATERPROOFING.

An American named S. O. Josephs was arrested in Hongkong last night on a charge of misappropriating $1,000, the property of Messrs. Michael and Coy., of Cuba.

Mr. Moore, of Messrs. Johnson, Stokes and Master, prosecuted when the defendant was brought before Mr. Melbourne at the Magistrate's. Josephs pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Moore said that the defendant was found on a steamer last night. The police found that he had booked a first class passage to Singapore under an assumed name. He asked for heavy bail as large amounts of money were involved. The case was remanded until the 22nd, bail being allowed in the sum of $5,000 cash, or a personal bond and one surety. Serge. Cooke had charge of the case.

HONGKONG HOTEL CO. SUED.

Former Clerk's Claim.

In the Summary Court yesterday afternoon, before Mr. Justice Kemp, G. F. Solky, accountant at the Royal George Hotel, Kowloon, sued the Hongkong Hotel Co., Ltd., to recover the sum of $108, being $18 for three days' salary in May, and $180, balance of one month's wages and board and lodging in lieu of notice.

Mr. J. H. Gardiner, solicitor, represented the plaintiff, and Mr. W. F. L. Shenton, of Messrs. Deacon, Lecker, Deacon and Harrison, was for the defendant. Mr. Shenton explained that Mr. Taggart, manager of the Hongkong Hotel, was leaving for Japan to-morrow and it was proposed to take his evidence de bene esse.

Mr. Taggart said the plaintiff was engaged on April 10 as a night clerk at a salary of $90 a month and board and lodging, the understanding being that the engagement should be terminable by twenty-four hours' notice on either side. Mr. Beaupaire, sub-manager, was present when this agreement was made. Plaintiff was taken on trial and his hours were from 10 p.m. till 9 a.m. Plaintiff knew that the barman was to be dismissed and asked to be allowed to discharge the two duties. Witness told him that he did not think the two duties could be combined, but as he could not get another barman at once agreed to give him a trial. Plaintiff was to have an allowance of $1 a day for drink while in charge of the bar but his drink book for the 1st May, his first day, showed $2.25 and on May 2, $5.21. By the terms of the hotel licence the bar had to be closed at 12 midnight. But on the morning of May 3rd witness received two reports from Mr. Beaupaire and witness's clerk, one stating that Mr. Solky was off duty from 12.45 till 5.30, and the other stating that he had left a message stating where he could be found if wanted. Witness told plaintiff he was not satisfactory as barman, and he asked to be allowed to retain his position as night clerk, but witness refused and told him to pack his things. He offered plaintiff $11.00 as salary from May 1st to 3rd, but he refused to take it.

By Mr. Gardiner: He did not engage plaintiff on a written agreement because he was merely on trial.

By Mr. Shenton: He engaged a European night clerk because he considered more supervision was needed and that somebody responsible should be on duty in case of fire occurring. There had also been a few robberies from the hotel.

The hearing of the case was fixed for Friday.
